

The Access Northern Ghana computer school was funded in two steps. These pictures were taken after Step 1 was completed, in July, 2008.

It turned out that there had been rain damage to the roof that needed to be repaired. Our funds paid for that, and for the air circulation fans that are pictured. In this picture you can see the computers that now sit below each monitor, and each machine has a mouse. What you do not see is that there is no internet connection, no printer, and there are various other lacks that meant that the school was not finished.
